JAHU PUTMAN

of Wilson County Tennessee

Jahu, or John as he was often listed, was a son of Joseph Putman and Millie Wilson of South Carolina. Millie was a daughter of John Wilson. Joseph was a son of James and Joice Putman of South Carolina. More on these two families is found in the SOUTH CAROLINA section of this history.

Jahu Putman was born in Union County, South Carolina on March 2, 1794. His family moved to the Old Pendleton District sometime around 1808. While living there both Jahu and his father Joseph served in Captain Moorhead's South Carolina Volunteers during the War of 1812.

He married Rachel Bond in Wilson County, Tennessee on January 21, 1817. Rachel was a daughter of William and Margaret Bond and was born in South Carolina on January 11, 1798.

Jahu took his 'Bounty Claim' for war service in Wilson County, Tennessee. Shortly afterwards a whole bunch of Putmans and Bonds and others headed west into Tennessee. They settled in Wilson County in the early 1820s. He remained in Wilson County through the 1850 and 1860 census and was alone with Rachel in the 1870 Wilson County census.

In about 1868, right after the Civil War, Jahu, Rachel and William helped their daughter Sarah move to Arkansas. William died there, and Rachel and Jahu returned to get William's family in Wilson County, Tennessee. They were there for the 1870 census. They then moved to Rutherford County, Tennessee to be with their son Joseph and his family. Later they moved back to Benton County, Arkansas to be with their son James and his family.

Jahu died on January 17, 1880 in Benton County, Arkansas, while living with his son James and James' second wife, Mary Newcomb. Rachel had died there on March 20, 1876. Both are buried in the Putman Cemetery in Rogers, Arkansas. Their children were:

Joseph and Sinia had at least two children, John and Mary. The children were listed in the 1840 and 1850 census. By 1860 Mary had married, but John was at home.
