He married SARAH HARDEN February 14, 1790.

Notes for SETH PUTNAM:

Seth Thomas' twin is Susannah Putnam. His grandson, Warner Herkimer Putnam, prepared a short sketch of Seth Putnam. He states that "in 1795, when his grandfather emigrated to Canada, there were no roads from the head of the lake (where Hamilton now stands), but an Indian trail led for 215 miles into the country, and the Indians were numerous. In 1805, Seth Putnam contracted with the local government to build a wagon road from the head of the lake to Chatham on the Thames, 18 miles east of Lake St. Clair, a distance of 160 miles through a heavily wooded country. For this he was to receive 1600 acres of land and a cash bonus. He built the road but never received his reward. After the death of Seth his son commenced proceedings to recover from the government what was due, but the outbreak of the rebellion of 1837 put an end to the matter."

He was a private in Captain Samuel Wetherbee's company, Colonel Isaac Wymann's regiment, which marched to reenforce the Northern army in June, 1776. According to his gravestone which was erected in 1847, states that he was born at Charlestown, New Hampshire, in 1758, an officer in the Revolutionary army. His son Thomas is authority for the statement that he was a member of the "Boston Tea Party."

Notes for SARAH HARDEN:

Her grandson, Warner Herkimer Putnam, prepared a short sketch of his grandmother. He states that "her name was Piper and that she was one of the few who escaped from the Massacre of Wyoming." He remembers her telling him about Butler's raid. Many of the stories he heard from her were thoroughly confirmed by history, as he found out in later days. He thinks she died about 1850, and says she never tired of telling him and others these tales of her early days."

Mr. Warner H. Putnam is probably mistaken in stating that his grandmother was a Piper. Her gravestone says Harding, and there were Hardings at Westmoreland and Exeter in the Wyoming valley who suffered severely from the massacre in goods and person, two at least of the family being killed. The entry of birth as in Nova Scotia must be a mistake.

Children of SETH PUTNAM and SARAH HARDEN are:

- i. LEWIS²⁶ PUTNAM, b. November 11, 1791; d. February 13, 1793.
583. ii. WILLIAM PUTNAM, b. November 06, 1793; d. December 04, 1838, Windsor, Canada.

He married PHEBE WOODBURY July 03, 1776 in Sutton, Massachusetts, daughter of BENJAMIN WOODBURY and RUTH CONANT.

Notes for DAVID PUTNAM:

David Putnam, in company with Caleb Putnam, left Sutton, Massachusetts, and settled in Croyden, New Hampshire, which place was settled in 1766 by families from Sutton and Grafton, Massachusetts. David Putnam was selectman seven years between 1781 and 1796; tythingman, 1787-9; moderator, 1793 and 1796; surveyor of highways, etc., auditor, 1794 and 1804. He was a man of great industry, and of a rugged constitution. His health was as usual on the day of his death.

He served in the Revolutionary army previous to his settling in Croyden.

He married JUDITH LIBBY August 21, 1776 in Sutton, Massachusetts, daughter of SAMUEL LIBBY and ABIGAIL PARK.

Notes for CALEB PUTNAM, SR.:

Caleb Putnam, Sr. is asserted by family traditions to have served in the army during the Revolution. About 1781, Caleb and his brother Daniel removed from Sutton, Massachusetts, to Croyden, New Hampshire. In 1785, he held the office of constable, a position of much more importance then than now.

He was often chosen to office, particularly to such as had control of the highways.

There is a record of marriage at Croydon, New Hampshire, 21 November, 1811, of Caleb Putnam and Freelove Elliott. This is probably a second marriage of Caleb Putnam.

276. JOKTON²⁵ PUTNAM (ELISHA²⁴, ELISHA²³, EDWARD²², THOMAS²¹, JOHN²⁰, NICHOLAS¹⁹, JOHN¹⁸, RICHARD¹⁷ PUTTNAM, JOHN¹⁶ PUTTENHAM, JOHN¹⁵, RICHARD¹⁴ DE PUTTENHAM, ROGER¹³, ROGER¹², JOHN¹¹, JOHN FITZ WALE¹⁰, WILLIAM⁹, THOMAS⁸ WALE, SIR, RICHARD FITZ⁷, HENRY FITZ⁶, RICHARD FITZ⁵, WILLIAM⁴ DE PUTTENHAM, GEOFFREY³ DE TURVILLE, ROGER², ANSCHITIL¹) was born May 01, 1750 in Sutton, Massachusetts, and died WFT Est. 1787-1841 in probably Gloucester, Rhode Island. He married ANNE HARRIS April 07, 1770, daughter of JOHN HARRIS.

Notes for JOKTON PUTNAM:

Jokton Putnam, during his minority, was ward of John Taft (1766), but soon removed from Sutton, Massachusetts, to Uxbridge, Massachusetts, (while there, in September, 1772, he was appointed guardian of his brother William), thence to Gloucester, Rhode Island. On 3 february, 1778, he was drafted into the Continental army from Uxbridge to serve in Massachusetts, till 5 November, 1778. They were, however, ordered to the Hudson, and he, with three others, failed to appear.

In May, 1783, he petitioned the general Court of Rhode Island for his discharge from prison. From this petition it appears that he with others had benn convicted of high crimes and misdemeanors and sentenced to pay L100 lawful money and costs and remain in goal till paid. He states that his property is under attachment for dept; that his family is large and suffering for want of his services. His petition was granted upon payment of costs.

In May, 1786, he again petitions, stating that in March, 1783, he and others were convicted of riotous proceedings at Gloucester and sentenced, etc.; that by the indulgence of the court he was liberated, having given security for his share of the costs, viz., L70, lawful money; that his property being small and family large, he prays that he may do as others have done, pay the costs in state notes. This was also granted.

Probably the disturbances above alluded to, were caused by the immense depreciation of paper money which followed the large issues by the state and federal governments, and which caused great suffering.

Children of JOKTON PUTNAM and ANNE HARRIS are:

- i. LUCINDA²⁶ PUTNAM, b. May 24, 1771, Gloucester, Rhode Island; d. WFT Est. 1795-1865; m. DANIEL CURTIS, April 12, 1789, Gloucester, Rhode Island.

He married MARY WILKINS November 27, 1766.

Notes for ADONIJAH PUTNAM:

Guilford was the scene of many conflicts between the "Yorkers" and "Green Mountain Boys." Each party alternately held control and committed depredations upon the property of the opposing faction. This state of things lasted until Vermont was finally admitted to the union as a state. In 1788, a grant of land was made by New York to those inhabitants of the grants, who had suffered from their attempt to uphold New York authority. Among these was Adonijah Putnam, who received 212 acres in Clinton, now Bainbridge, Chenango County, New York. About this time (1792) it is stated by a gentleman writing from the settlements in Western New York, that $265 above the cost of land was the least that a family should attempt a settlement. This was the cost of a log hut $100 - a yoke of oxen, a cow, farming utensils, etc. His children are mentioned in the will of their grandfather, Jonathan. His birth is either 6 or 9 October, 1744, and died 1791-2.

He married JOANNA LELAND December 11, 1783 in Sutton, Massachusetts, daughter of ABNER LELAND and FAIRWEATHER.*

Notes for FRANCIS PUTNAM:

Captain Francis Putnam served in the revolution, volunteering as a private upon the call for troops after the Lexington Alarm. During the siege of Boston he was in Colonel Gridley's regiment. He also saw service in other parts.

He was a man of great agility and strength, he could out-jump every man in the regiment except Jacob Severy. It is recorded of him that he could jump a bar six inches higher than his head. The grist mill owned by Jonathan Putnam, was operated by Francis, who afterward gave it to his son Silas, who in turn sold it to his brother Pliney. The property was afterward included in the property of the Sutton Cranberry Company.

Notes for JOHN PUTNAM:

John Putnam in his boyhood lived in the family of Ebenezer Harvey, Jr., at Chesterfield, Vermont. In 1779, he enlisted in Colonel Hercules Mooney's regiment, which regiment was ordered to Rhode Island. After his marriage he lived in Centre Village. Although Mr. Putnam commenced life in humble circumstances, he acquired a considerable fortune.

He was trustee of the academy and selectman several years between 1808 and 1826. He was representative between 1816 and 1826.

He married DOADA RISLEY 1874.*

Notes for GIDEON PUTNAM:

Gideon Putnam started in life without other means than a good wife and ample courage. Their first settlement was at Middlebury, Vermont, where a log cabin was built by the young husband, and here they kept house. An inventory of their household goods would have shown but three cups and saucers, three plates, knives and forks, an earthen tea-pot, and spider. The site of the log cabin is now covered by Middlebury College.

Not being satisfied with Middlebury, a removal was made to Rutland, Vermont, where their eldest son was born. Thence to "Five Nations" or "Bemis Flats," where they were joined by Dr. Clement Blakesley and wife, who was sister of Mrs. Putnam. In consequence of a severe freshet which caused him considerable loss, Mr. Putnam left the locality and following the Indian trail went, in 1789, to Saratoga Springs, New York, then comparatively unknown. He was the pioneer in developing the resources of Saratoga Springs. There he leased three hundred acres, and building a cabin commenced anew. Within two years he had paid for his farm in full, the lumbering business in which he engaged proving profitable.

In 1802 he erected seventy feet of Union Hall upon land bought for that purpose. Union Hall was sold in 1864, to Leland Bros., and the hotel is now called the Grand Union.

In 1805, having bought 150 acres of land, he laid out the Village, reserving a burial place and church site, upon which the Baptists built in 1821, theirs being the first church to organize. The next year Washington or Clarendon spring was excavated and tubed, and also the Columbian; besides all this he erected a bath house just north of Congress Spring, and excavated a spring about fifteen feet distant from the present Congress Fountain.

He next tubed Hamilton Spring, and in 1811 commenced the erection of Congress Hall, during the building of which he fell from a staging and broke several ribs. The following November he was seized with inflammation of the lungs which proved fatal. He was buried in the cemetery he had presented to the town.

The sign, a rude representation of General Putnam and the wolf, used by Gideon Putnam at the old Union Hall, was in the possession of Dr. Loren B. Putnam, a grandson.

Notes for ELISHA PUTNAM:

Elisha Putnam was tall and spare, of quick intelligence, inventive genius, independent and positive opinions even to the extent of voting for his candidates for presidential electors. By occupation he was a carpenter, builder, civil engineer, architect and contactor; he built the first nail mill near Troy, New York, two or three churches in Albany, New York, one or more sections of the Erie Canal, part of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, laid the first pipes of hollowed wood to supple Albany with water, and was for many years superintendent of the water works there. Before completing the first nail works at Troy for the brinckerhoffs, he got admission into the only other establishment in the country where a certain secret purpose was carried on, disguised as an ignorant countryman seeking work. In one day he mastered the special machinery, and was able from memory to set up similar and improved machinery in the mills he was building. A member of the Presbyterian church in Albany, in his late years he gave especial attention to theological matters. At the age of eighty, he wrote and published "The Crisis, or Last Trumpet," which is an able presentation of the premillennial views of the second advent.

A portrait was in the possession of his granddaughter, Mrs. John D. Capron, Albany, New York.

Notes for OLIVER PUTNAM:
Oliver Putnam was brought up in Newburyport, Massachusetts, and engaged in merchantile life in Jamaica and Europe. He became financially independent at an early age. He was intimate with Caleb Cushing and deeply interested in the educational problems of the day, as well as in political economy, and upon the latter subject published a number of tracts or essays. He will be long remembered from his bequest to Newburyport establishing there a free English school of high grade (The Putnam School). His will describes him as formerly of Newburyport, but then of Boston. In it mention is made of his sister Lucy and her two children, Laura and Susan; Robert, son of his sister Elizabeth, deceased; Jeremiah, son of his sister Sarah, all minors, and brother Thorndike Putnam. He was mentioed in his father's will.

He married RACHEL FULLER February 03, 1763.

Notes for JEREMIAH PUTNAM:

Jeremiah Putnam served in the French and Indian War from February to December, 1756, in the company of Captain Andrew Fuller, at Crown Point, and again from March to November, 1758, under the same commander. He enlisted 6 April, 1759, in Colonel Plaisted's regiment. When the Lexington Alarm of 19 April, 1775, he was one of those who responded being a member of Captain Jeremiah Page's company. After the fight at Lexington he enlisted in the army as sergeant, 11 May, 1775, and rose to the rank of captain. He was taken prisoner at Long Island at which time he was an ensign in Colonel Hutchinson's regiment. He was a brave soldier and gallant officer.

Hanson says of him, "He was a useful citizen and discharged faithfully the trusts reposed in him."

"In memory of Capt. Jeremiah Putnam who died Sept. 16, 1799, Aged 63 years. An officer under the Immortal Washington."

This modest stone, what few vain mortals can,
May truly say; Here lies an Honest Man."

Notes for NATHAN PUTNAM:

On the 3 February, 1767, the guardianship of Nathan Putnam, minor child of Jonathan, was granted to Gideon Putnam. Nathan Putnam was a member of Captain Hutchinson's company which responded to the Lexington Alarm of 19 April, 1775, and which suffered severely in the fight at Arlington, while making a brave stand. His brother Perley was killed.

"Lost in battle of Menotomy, by Nathan Putnam, of Capt. Hutchinson's Company, who was then badly wounded, A French Firelock, marked D., No. 6, with a marking iron, on the breech. Said Putnam carried it to a cross Road near a mill. Whoever has said Gun in Possession, is desired to return it to Col. Mansfield of Lynn, or to the Selectmen of Danvers, and they shall be well rewarded for their trouble. Danvers, May 16, 1775."

He re-enlisted in Captain Putnam's company, 19th Regiment, 6 October, 1775. Constable 1785 and in 1787, he and Benjamin Putnam were of a committee to regulate the schools for the following winter.

Notes for JESSE PUTNAM:

Colonel Jesse Putnam lived and died on his ancestral farm in Danvers, Massachusetts, and with many of his family is buried in the Putnam Cemetery near Asylum station in Danvers. This cemetery is known as the "Daniel and Jesse Putnam Burial Ground." In it are the remains of most of the descendants of thomas Putnam who have lived on or near his original farm. Here in the old tomb, now overgrown, was laid the body of Ann Putnam of witchcraft memory.

Jesse Putnam was constantly improving the farm inherited from his ancestors, and early obtained the premium offered by the Essex County Agricultural Society for the best managed farm in the county.

He was an active temperance man in principle and practice, never supplying his men with liquor customary in those days. His independent character was shown in many ways, especially in his active anti-slavery work and other moral and political reforms. His title of colonel was obtained during the War of 1812, he having commanded an artillery company stationed at Beverly, Massachusetts, although he was never in actual service.

In church affairs he was ever to the front in contributing financial and moral aid to every good cause. He had united with the First Church in 1832 and was a constant attendant.

In town affairs he was frequently called upon to take a prominent part and held many official positions. His character was strongly marked. Generous, brave, hearty in his friendships, fond of children and of fun, thoroughly in earnest in whatever he undertook, hospitable and kind to the poor, he was a typical American country gentleman.

Notes for ELIZABETH MERRIAM:

Mrs. Putnam was as remarkable a woman as her husband was a man. She was of inestimable service to him and their long married life unmarred. Living to a great age she retained her faculties to the last. On her 102d birthday, surrounded by her descendants, she received her many friends, and enjoyed the occasion as much as any, being keenly alive to all the affairs of the day. At the time of her death she was the oldest woman in Essex County.

She married TIMOTHY H. PUTNAM March 10, 1794, son of PHINEAS PUTNAM and MARY WHIPPLE.

Notes for TIMOTHY H. PUTNAM:

Timothy Putnam enlisted at the age of sixteen and served throughout the Revolution bearing the hardships of the terrible winter at Valley Forge. He came home bare-footed. Otis Putnam, Esq., of Danvers, Massachusetts, has in his possession the gun Timothy carried through the war. Mr. Adrian L. Putnam of Provincetown, a grandson, has the family bible and several heirlooms, amongst which is a small silver spoon marked "H.P." and a china plate with "T.H.P." in gilt in the center. This plate is one of a set made to order in China.

Timothy Putnam occupied for a time the old Putnam house, since removed which formerly stood in Summer Street. A part of this property is now known as Oak Hill. He had in a marked degree the old fashioned courteous and dignified manners. The four sons were of medium stature and very industrious men.

"June 22, 1830, my dear wife departed this life fifteen minutes before eleven of the clock."

He married JERUSHA CLAPP October 05, 1790, daughter of JOSEPH CLAPP.

Notes for ANDREW PUTNAM:

Andrew Putnam's father, William, in 1783 bought a large farm in that part of Lancaster, Massachusetts, which soon after set of as the new town of Sterling, Massachusetts. This farm he divided into two, building a new home for himself, and establishing his oldest son, Andrew, in the old farmhouse, a very old but substantially built oak-framed house, which was still standing (1890) in good repair.

Andrew Putnam died in 1809, leaving his widow with six children, of whom the youngest was less than two years old. Accident and disease carried off all except the oldest and the youngest before the latter had finished his college course, and he was familiar from his earliest years with sorrow and care, as well as with the noblest patience and courage.

DANIEL²⁵ PUTNAM (ISRAEL²⁴, DAVID²³, JOSEPH²², THOMAS²¹, JOHN²⁰, NICHOLAS¹⁹, JOHN¹⁸, RICHARD¹⁷ PUTTNAM, JOHN¹⁶ PUTTENHAM, JOHN¹⁵, RICHARD¹⁴ DE PUTTENHAM, ROGER¹³, ROGER¹², JOHN¹¹, JOHN FITZ WALE¹⁰, WILLIAM⁹, THOMAS⁸ WALE, SIR, RICHARD FITZ⁷, HENRY FITZ⁶, RICHARD FITZ⁵, WILLIAM⁴ DE PUTTENHAM, GEOFFREY³ DE TURVILLE, ROGER², ANSCHITIL¹) was born March 08, 1774 in Danvers, Massachusetts, and died February 10, 1854 in Danvers, Massachusetts. He married SUSANNA PUTNAM November 30, 1797 in Putnamville, Danvers, Massachusetts, daughter of STEPHEN PUTNAM and SUSANNA HERRICK.

Notes for DANIEL PUTNAM:

Daniel Putnam inherited from his father the farm now known as the "General Putnam" house. There the general was born and the room today is in many respects unchanged, although the outside of the house is much altered. The old road passed by what is now the back of the house and by the huge willow was a running brook.

The estate was owned by his daughter, Susan Putnam. The state took a large part of the original farm, when the asylum was erected, yet today (1890) the farm is one of the best cultivated in Danvers, Massachusetts.

Daniel Putnam was a shoe manufacture and farmer. He was representative to general Court in 1811-17-19, and often selectman.

His son Allen wrote of his father's home: "Ours was a home of industry, Harmony, and contentment, burdened by neither poverty nor riches. Morality and religion was constantly inculcated by both precept and example. Both parents lived the life of the righteous and their children have reason to cherish most fond affection and reverence for them both, and to be grateful for the careful training they received."

Notes for SUSAN PUTNAM:

Sarah Putnam resided at the Putnam homestead. Miss Putnam has probably met more of the descendants of John Putnam than any other person living. She was always glad to receive visitors and show them the room in which General Putnam was born. Many of these notes have been supplied by Miss Putnam and her sister, Mrs. Philbrick, who have always taken a deep interest in family affairs.

Notes for JOHN DUDLEY PHILBRICK:

He graduated from Dartmouth College, 1842, and was appointed assistant in the Latin School in Roxbury, Massachusetts. His success was immediate and marked. To him is due the present system of grammar schools in Boston, Massachusetts; he was called to Connecticut, and organized the State Normal School at New Britain. He soon returned to Boston and was Superintendent of Public Schools there from 1857 to 1874 and from 1876 to 1878. When he resigned his office he left these schools the best organized and conducted public institutions in this or any other county. In 1878 he was sent to Paris to represent our educational affairs and was successful in overcoming the many difficulties encountered and was decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor. The University of St. Andrews conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws. His entire life was devoted to the development of our educational institutions; his work and writings are known throughout the world. John Greenleaf Whittier, his neighbor in Danvers, wrote of him "He was deeply depressed with the imperative necessity of the education of all the people of the United States, as the only safeguard of liberty and progress, regarding the ballot in the hands of ignorance a cause for serious apprehension of national danger. A good and true man, who served his generation faithfully and successfully, he deserves to be held in grateful remembrance."

Notes for MOSES PUTNAM:

Moses Putnam was apprenticed to learn the shoe business, when fourteen years of age, to John Porter of Danvers, Massachusetts. By successive steps he rose in business till he became one of the largest manufacturers and wealthiest men in Danvers. He, along with his brother Samuel, were pioneers in the shoe manufacturing business, and made their homes near their father's house.

Putnamville owes much to Mr. Putnam, who practically, along with his brother, Samuel, spent their lives there. Both were among the founders of the Maple Street Church, which was a offshoot, more centrally located, from the ancient First Church of which they were exemplary members.

AARON WALDO²⁵ PUTNAM (ISRAEL²⁴, ISRAEL²³, JOSEPH²², THOMAS²¹, JOHN²⁰, NICHOLAS¹⁹, JOHN¹⁸, RICHARD¹⁷ PUTTNAM, JOHN¹⁶ PUTTENHAM, JOHN¹⁵, RICHARD¹⁴ DE PUTTENHAM, ROGER¹³, ROGER¹², JOHN¹¹, JOHN FITZ WALE¹⁰, WILLIAM⁹, THOMAS⁸ WALE, SIR, RICHARD FITZ⁷, HENRY FITZ⁶, RICHARD FITZ⁵, WILLIAM⁴ DE PUTTENHAM, GEOFFREY³ DE TURVILLE, ROGER², ANSCHITIL¹) was born April 18, 1767 in Pomfret, Connecticut, and died August 21, 1822 in Belpre, Ohio. He married CHARLOTTE LORING June 24, 1791, daughter of DANIEL LORING.

Notes for AARON WALDO PUTNAM:

Aaron Waldo Putnam accompanied his father to Ohio in 1788, and arrived at Marietta after a long and tedious journey full of peril and adventure. While crossing the North River at Fish Kill a severe accident befell the party, but, by the presence of mind of Aaron, his father's oxen, upon which so much depended, were saved.

Upon obtaining his land, which fell to him in the middle settlement at Belpre, he immediately commenced clearing. During 1791 the settlers went into garrison and young Putnam shaved the perils of the Indian War during the succeeding four years.

As his clearing was over a mile and a half from the fort, visits to it were of great danger, and twice he narrowly escaped capture by the Indians.

As soon as circumstances permitted Mr. Putnam took up his residence on his farm and his chief delight centered in his home. Here he entertained the hosts of friends, among whom were the Blannerhassetts, and when their beautiful home was destroyed by the mob, and Madame Blannerhasset, after her husband's flight, left the island, Mr. Putnam supplied her with money and everything necessary. Indeed he was the last person to visit her.

Mr. Putnam had little taste for public office although constantly tendered him.

In height he was of medium size, with dark hair and expressive eyes, and an expression beaming with intelligence and good will.

Both he and his wife died during the epidemic of 1822. For further account of his life see Hildreth's Early Settlers of Ohio.

He married BETHIA GLYSSAM 1794, daughter of GLYSSAM.

Notes for WILLIAM PITT PUTNAM:

William Pitt Putnam began the study of medicine when eighteen years of age, with Dr. Albigenice Waldo, of Pomfret, Connecticut, and also attended the lectures of warren and Waterhouse, celebrated teachers at Harvard University.

In May, 1792, he removed to Marietta, Ohio, and commenced the practice of medicine, spending a portion of his time at Belpre, Ohio, where his brother was located. In 1794 he visited Connecticut, and returned to Ohio with his father and family and his young wife. Five years later he abandoned his profession and bought 200 acres of land on the ohio eight miles above Marietta. The labor of clearing the land and developing a farm brought on a fever from which he died, leaving but one child.

He married SARAH SOPHIA SMITH April 29, 1798, daughter of ELISHA SMITH and FRANCES SESSIONS.

Notes for ISRAEL PUTNAM DANA:

Israel Putnam Dana removed to Danville, Vermont, in 1805, where he was one of the pioneers in the settlement of the town and of northern Vermont. He was a successful merchant for many years; also inn-keeper 1805-8, and an extensive farmer, devoting much attention to sheep raising. His sterling qualities gained and held the public confidence. He was high sheriff 1808-13, and took the first prisoners to the new state prison in Windsor; State Counselor, etc.

In the War of 1812 he was an active supporter of the administration, raising volunteers for the service and furnishing the commissariat for numbers of soldiers quartered at Danville. In 1814 he raised a company and was on his way to Burlington when the news of the battle at Plattsburg was received. After the war he was collector of the direct tax for a large district in northern Vermont; 1822-7, a member of the Governor's council; for several years the first president of the Vermont Mutual Fire Insurance Company. For 30 years he was an efficient and consistent member of the Congregational church, and earnest in support of its work at home and abroad.

Notes for NATHAN PUTNAM:

Nathan Putnam lived in Grafton, Stow, Ashburnham and Wendall, Massachusetts, and Lexington, Kentucky. He joined his brother John at Ashburnham. While at Stow he kept an inn. In 1778, Nathan Putnam and wife were granted letters of dismissal from the church, on account of difference of opinion in regard to infant baptism.

There is a curious manuscript written by Nathan Putnam and now in the possession of his descendants in Kentucky, from which the below account of his children was taken, touching on every variety of subject. One is a satire on "Calvin's Creed," very well taken, and showing the author to be a man of shrewd sense and somewhat of an Unitarian of Universalist in his belief.

Sarah - "Sarah has had a chequered fortune; they have been raised from low to high degree and have now sunk to low" About her children "Orily, Sarah, Daniel, Joseph, all dead" About her husband - "he has a large share of ingenuity in the mechanical line, and has met with many disappointments and losses, is now picking up again"

Lucy - "Lucy married Mr. Aaron Lawrence; his fortune has been diversified; began well but lost his health; moved from place to place, at last to Vermont, where he is doing well;" "have not lost a child;" "have never seen such an agreeable family, all well looking and most are beautiful. One son and two or three are married." "Lucy has three or four grandchildren"

James - "an unfortunate youth, much inclined to society and sport; chose a sea faring life and has been heard from for many years past"

Notes for DANIEL PUTNAM:

Family record that was in possession of Mr. Abel Putnam of Saratoga has his birth as 15 October. Daniel Putnam was at Concord, 19 April, 1775. He with his brothers John and Nathan, settled in Ashburnham about the opening of the revolution. During September, 1776, he enlisted in Captain Manasseh Sawyer's company, Colonel Dike's regiment and served, the latter portion of the time as sergeant, until 21 January, 1777. In 1779, he was chosen one of the Committee on Correspondence.

In July, 1781, upon the reorganization of the militia he received a commission as second lieutenant of 7th company, 8th Regiment, and on 2 May, 1787, captain. In this year he was chosen on a committee to draft a petition for pardon for Captain Job Shattuck, then under sentence of death for participating in Shays' Rebellion. Captain Putnam was conspicuous in the business and military affairs of the town, but in 1798 he removed to Winchendon, and in 1810 to Windham, Vermont, stopping for a time at Royalton, Vermont.

Notes for AARON PUTNAM:

Dr. Aaron Putnam was settled in Medford, Massachusetts, for ten years, but on account of a limited practice removed to Charlestown, Massachusetts, and engaged with Messrs. Morse & Woodbridge in the manufacture of baking powder, which however proved an unsuccessful venture. In 1801 he had the position of agent to purchase sixty-five acres of flats for the U.S. navy yard. He dealt quite largely in real estate, and in 1800 sold to the United States four acres of land in Charlestown for the navy yard. During the struggle for independence he was a surgeon's mate in Colonel Frye's regiment in 1775, in the 26th regiment in 1776, and was appointed surgeon in Vose's regiment, 1 July, 1777; discharged 26 October, 1777.

Dr. Aaron Putnam and wife were admitted to church in Medford, 28 May, 1786; dismissed to church at Charlestown, 29 April, 1792.

Notes for JAMES PHILLIPS PUTNAM, DR.:

Doctor James Phillips Putnam practised in Danvers, Massachusetts. At one time he lived in the Clark house which stood where now is the Danvers station on the Eastern Division of the B.&M.R.R. Company. Of Danvers, 1745-1824.

Elderly people in Danvers, Massachusetts, well remember the two daughters of Dr. Putnam, Hannah and Betsey. They kept a private school to which the children were generally sent. Many are the anecdotes told of their discipline and management. Among their scholars was the Reverend A.P. Putnam. A memorial shaft over their graves in the Wadsworth Cemetery was erected by their former pupils.

More About HANNAH PUTNAM:

Baptism: September 24, 1749, Salem Village, Massachusetts

Notes for NATHAN PUTNAM:

On the 3 February, 1767, the guardianship of Nathan Putnam, minor child of Jonathan, was granted to Gideon Putnam. Nathan Putnam was a member of Captain Hutchinson's company which responded to the Lexington Alarm of 19 April, 1775, and which suffered severely in the fight at Arlington, while making a brave stand. His brother Perley was killed.

"Lost in battle of Menotomy, by Nathan Putnam, of Capt. Hutchinson's Company, who was then badly wounded, A French Firelock, marked D., No. 6, with a marking iron, on the breech. Said Putnam carried it to a cross Road near a mill. Whoever has said Gun in Possession, is desired to return it to Col. Mansfield of Lynn, or to the Selectmen of Danvers, and they shall be well rewarded for their trouble. Danvers, May 16, 1775."

He re-enlisted in Captain Putnam's company, 19th Regiment, 6 October, 1775. Constable 1785 and in 1787, he and Benjamin Putnam were of a committee to regulate the schools for the following winter.

Notes for ANDREW PUTNAM:

Andrew Putnam had rather a chequered career. He was occasionally in office from 1778-1780, but in 1782 got into a law dispute with Dr. Endicott and finally left Danvers, Massachusetts, going to New York. He seems to have made some pretensions to practising medicine. Pyncheon's diary gives some interesting facts concerning "Dr. Andrew Putnam." He owned land in Danvers and Marblehead. He was possible the Andrew Putnam who was commissioned captain, 24 April, 1778, of the 7th company, 8th Essex regiment Massachusetts Militia. Administration granted to Israel Putnam, 3d, 16 November, 1785.

He married ANNA ENDICOTT July 08, 1788, daughter of ELIAS ENDICOTT and EUNICE ANDREWS.

Notes for ISRAEL PUTNAM:

Israel Putnam, says the Essex Register, Salem, Massachusetts, announcing his death, "was a highly respected and worthy citizen," a pure and upright man, he was withal of a very devout spirit. He embraced the Universalist views which his father had accepted. He headed, 22 April, 1815, a list of names, twenty-four in all, which were appended to a paper organizing those who signed it into the First Universalist Society of Danvers. In furtherance of the object to establish stated preaching of the doctrine which they professed, the subscribers, with other friends, met six days later, on the 28th, at the Brick Scool House, District No. 3, in which most of them lived, whereupon Mr. Putnam was chosen moderator and Treasurer, with Warren Porter as Clerk; and measures were adopted to engage the services of ministers and to raise money to defray the necessary expenses. Reverend Edward Turner and other clergymen of the faith had already, in previous years, preached in the School House from time to time; but now there came to be a more regular supply, Reverend Hosea Ballou and Reverend (afterward Honorable) Charles Hudson and other noted men occupying the desk. Thus early, Universalism was established in Danvers. Mr. Putnam, it is believed, occasionally read to the little knot of believers certain sermons which he himself wrote, out of his deep interest in the new movement and the views which it was designed to propagate. One or more of these he printed in pamphlet form and circulated in the neighborhood. One of those was a discourse, entitled "Universal Death in Adam and Life in Christ, containing a Refutation of the Doctrine of Total Depravity and Endless Misery," (1817), and was a very well written and ably reasoned production. Though the sermon was marked with admirable temper, it called forth a scurrilous printed rejoinder from a Mr. Dole, one or two other publications on either side giving the continued discussion of the subject.

About the time Mr. Putnam died, the little society lost another of its highly esteemed and greatly beloved members, Mr. Joseph Porter. Reverend Barzillai Streeter preached and printed a sermon, occasioned by the death of these two excellent Christian men, in which he paid a fitting tribute to their noble characters and to the brave and decided stand which they had taken for the cause of religious liberty, as against the oppressive creeds and Parish Rate System which had been in vogue. Mr. Putnam was a conscientious and thoughtful man, much venerated by all who knew him, specially devoted to religious matters, and exceptionally familiar with the Scriptures.

412. AARON²⁵ PUTNAM (AMOS²⁴, AMOS²³, JOHN²², NATHANIEL²¹, JOHN²⁰, NICHOLAS¹⁹, JOHN¹⁸, RICHARD¹⁷ PUTTNAM, JOHN¹⁶ PUTTENHAM, JOHN¹⁵, RICHARD¹⁴ DE PUTTENHAM, ROGER¹³, ROGER¹², JOHN¹¹, JOHN FITZ WALE¹⁰, WILLIAM⁹, THOMAS⁸ WALE, SIR, RICHARD FITZ⁷, HENRY FITZ⁶, RICHARD FITZ⁵, WILLIAM⁴ DE PUTTENHAM, GEOFFREY³ DE TURVILLE, ROGER², ANSCHITIL¹) was born July 19, 1773 in New Salem, Massachusetts, and died February 13, 1849 in Houlton, Maine. He married ISA PATRICK January 16, 1794 in New Salem, Massachusetts.

Notes for AARON PUTNAM:

Aaron Putnam bought one-eighth of the grant to New Salem Academy in Maine and in 1805 in company with other pioneers settled Houlton. The other purchasers of this grant were, John and Joshua Putnam, each one-tenth, Varney Pearce, Joseph Houlton, Rufus Cowles, John Chamberlain, William Bowman, Consider Hastings, Thomas Powers.

The grant was in disputed territory, claimed by both the United States and Great Britain so that the early settlers took great risks in purchasing of the Massachusetts party.

The early settlers lived in log cabins and were satisfied with the simplest of food, dress and utensils, while the farm was being cleared. Then came a frame house, easier communication with the outer world, and soon one was as comfortable in Northern Maine as in western Massachusetts. Previous to 1813 Aaron Putnam had erected a saw mill and it was in that year that the frame house commenced to supersede the log cabin.

During the early settlement and until after the War of 1812 the families in town were few. Aaron Putnam, his wife and family, his mother, his brother (cousin?), Joshua's family, the Rices, Shaws, Houltons, all connections and all determined to stick. The suffering from cold and scarcity of provisions some years was great. During the year 1813 deserters from the British garrison across the river were frequently in town, and generally the settlers helped their escape, although having no means of defense they were at the mercy of the British and so forced to be neutral. Mrs. Putnam once dared a provost's guard to enter her house where a deserter was rocking the cradle in plain sight, and where he remained in safety until a suitable opportunity opened for his escape.

The early settlers reached Houlton by sailing from Boston to the mouth of the St. John River, then up the river to Frederickton. Here they embarked in small craft and proceeded as far as Woodstock; there the families remained while young men went to prepare a bridge path to the settlement. The first visit to Houlton by Mr. Putnam and Mr. Houlton was in 1804, at which time they were nearly lost in the forest.

When, in 1836, the Unitarian movement reached Houlton, Aaron Putnam gave the land for the church, and his sons, the Pearce family and the Houlton "connection" contributed the funds.

In the "Story of Houlton," Mr. Francis Barnes, lately deceased, has told the sufferings and successes of the pioneers in a most interesting manner. To him I (Eben Putnam) am indebted for most of the material concerning the descendants of Amos Putnam who settled in Maine.

Notes for STEPHEN PUTNAM:

Stephen Putnam bought a farm in Temple, New Hampshie, which adjoins Wilton and Lyndeboro, New Hampshire, and settled there. He bought a grist mill there. In 1776 he signed the Association Test, but in June, 1777, he with others was obliged to show cause why they should not be considered unfriendly to the new government. His answer satisfied the meeting. Shortly after the Revolution he moved to Rumford, Maine, where his son Stephen had already settled. Mr. Putnam became the founder of the Rumford family of Putnam. Here also he built a mill and became quite an influential person. He had great mechanical ability, in fact was a "Jack at all trades."
Most of his children were born in Temple, New Hampshire.

He married (1) ABIGAIL JAQUITH June 19, 1764. He married (2) HANNAH JACQUES January 10, 1767.

Notes for PHILIP PUTNAM:

Colonel Philip Putnam served in the French and indian War, and in the Revolution commanded a company mustered 26 September, 1776, for three months service, at the Battle of White Plains; he also served one month at Saratoga in 1777. His title of colonel was obtained in the militia.

He was selectman three years, and represented Wilton, New Hampshire, in the state legislature for nearly a score of years.

He was an exceedingly properous farmer and for many years one of the largest tax payers in Wilton.

The following Putnam's resident in Wilton in April, 1776, signed the non-intercourse resolutions of New Hampshire: Philip Putnam, Jacob Putnam, Caleb Putnam, Nathaniel Putnam and Jacob Putnam, Jr.

He married MIRIAM HAMBLETT Abt. May 1763.

Notes for JOSEPH PUTNAM:

Joseph Putnam had a fair complexion, brown hair and blue eyes; of medium height (5ft. 10in.), firmly built, broad shouldres; he had an iron constitution. Of temperate habits, just in his dealings, of a progressive mind, and great firmness and steadfastness of character, he was beloved by his family and admired by his neighbors. Throughout his life he adhered to the old style of dress.

He built his house, which was still standing (1890), remodeled and moved from the original site, in Society Land, where now stands the Bennington Hotel. He built the first bridge across the river at this point, and it was long known as Putnam's bridge. Between 1782-9 he bought nearly the whole of the site of the present village of bennington, and owned the water power of the falls on the Contoocook. In 1794, his estate was detached from Society Land and attached to Hancock, New Hampshire.

In the account written by E.D. Putnam, of his grandfather Joseph, he tells of the first settlement in Temple, New Hampshire, on a piece of land deeded to him by his father, situated in what had been formerly Wilton.

There Hannah was born, and the succeeding five children. At that time that country was but sparsely peopled and Mr. E.D. Putnam states that his grandfather often related to him of the early times; how the wolves would render night terrible with their howling and how on account of the bears and wolves it was necessary to shut up the sheep nightly.

The stream now called Whiting's Brook was then known as Putnam's Brook, and there Joseph erected the second grist mill built in Temple. In 1782 he abandoned that situation and located at the great falls on the Contoocook, and erected a saw and grist mill, buying land on both sides of the river, completely controlling the water power. His land was in 1794 annexed to Hancock. Repeated offers were made him to sell but he refused until 1804, when he removed to a farm in Alstead, and, feeling that the time was passed when he should labor, called his son Gideon to carry on the farm, and later Jacob. Upon the latter moving to Marshfield, Vermont, in 1820, his parents accompanied him and died there.

He belonged to the church of England, later the American Episcopal church.

In regard to the dates of birth and death of his Wilton branch children, Eben Putnam generally followed the MSS, of perley Putnam, who had frequent communications with the Wilton families, the early part of the 19th century. The History of Wilton differs occasionally. See also History of Hancock.

Notes for SAMUEL PUTNAM:

Judge Samuel Putnam was the only one of the ten children of Gideon who lived to attain maturity. His delicate youth gave no promise of the long and useful life to come. As a boy he attended school at Beverly, Massachusetts, and later at Andover. Thence to Harvard being in the same class as John Quincy Adams, and from which institution he graduated in 1787. In 1794 he was admitted to the Essex Bar, having studied law with Judge Parsons at Newburyport, Massachusetts, in preference to adopting the profession of teacher selected by his father. He soon established himself at Salem, Massachusetts, and obtained a lucrative practise, at the same time giving more or less attention to politics. In this later field he was successful, representing Salem in the General Court in 1812, and the county as senator in 1808, 1809, 1813, 1814. During his last term as senator Chief Justice Sewall died, and Governor Strong appointed Mr. Putnam to the vacant seat on the bench of the Supreme Court. In 1825 he received the degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Cambridge, England. For twenty-eight years he remained on the bench, during which time no one could justly complain of his decisions which have been praised by the most learned judges of our own time.

He took great pride in his place at Danvers, and great interest in all that pertained to the history of the family. In his youth he saw the soldiers under Arnold march by on their way to Quebec, and had seen a British regiment parade under the command of General Gage, and the events in the life Israel Putnam and others of the family were familiar gossip to his cars.

In July, 1834, he wrote the following letter to Colonel Perley Putnam, of such general interest, that it is inserted here:

"The Register of Deeds shows that the family became proprietors of considerable tracts of land. The homestead of my farm I believe has always been owned by some of the descendants from the common ancestor. They have generally been plain common-sense, industrious men. They have not been very rich, but in comfortable circumstances.

I have known very many of this numerous family (probably as numerous as descended from any of the first settlers of Salem) and have traditionary accounts from many others. Of a few only I will speak. For I have not time to speak of many who are as deserving as those of whom I shall make mention.

James Putnam (No. 378) of Worcester, was a distinguished councillor at law, and the patron of John Adams, the late President of the United States. He adhered to the parent country, and removed to New Brunswick where he held a judicial office, with great reputation under the crown. His descendants have been very respectable, have merited and received the rewards due to their continued alligiance and fidelity. One of them returned to England and was particularly favored by Prince Edward now deceased.

We can now look to the period of the Revolution without the bitter feelings which then agitated the country. And it is clear (to my mind at least) that many of those who adhered to the old government were as true men as many of those were who shook off their allegiance.

For example, I think that James Putnam, Daniel Leonard and Jonathan Sewall loved their country as well as John Adams, John Hancock and Samuel Adams.

Ebenezer Putnam (No. 374), of Salem, the grandfather of the postmaster, was very distinguished in the medical department. If I am not mistaken he was the brother of James Putnam of Worcester. I remember his appearance and his civility to me when I was a boy. His person moved alertly. I have heard Aunt Clark say that his house was broken open in the night; that he went down alone in the darkness, seized and detained the burglar, who was a much larger man than himself. If he had been a soldier he would have been as fearless as he was skilful as a physician. Ebenezer Putnam (No. 960), the father of the postmaster, was a gentleman of most excellent spirit as well as of great truth and honor. I knew him very well. In any case of morals it would have been safe to follow the dictates of his mind.

I remember your grandfather, Dr. Amos Putnam (No. 271), of Danvers. He was in great practice as a physician and surgeon, and of a most courteous and gentlemanly deportment. He was the physician in my father's family. It used to be said that he acquired his skill in surgery in the war of 1756. Some of the family have distinguished themselves in war; General Israel Putnam (No. 90), is known to the world certainly as a soldier of great bravery. I was once at his house in Brooklyn where he treated me with great hospitality. He showed me the place where he followed a wolf into a cave and shot it; and he gave me a great many anecdotes of the war in which he had been engaged, before the revolution, tracing the remarkable events upon a map. He was once taken by the Indians and tied to a tree to be put to death according to their fashion. They threw their tomahawk into the tree by the side of his head, and after amusing themselves in that way, for some time, they lighted up the fire and danced and yelled around him. When they were thus engaged, one of the tribe, a chief who had been once a prisoner of Putnam and treated kindly by him, arrived at the spot and recognized his friend in their intended victim, immediately released him from impending slaughter. General Putnam said that their gestures in the dance were so inexpressively ridiculous that he could not forbear laughing. I expressed some surprise that he could laugh under such circumstances, to which he mildly replied, that his composure had no merit - that it was constiitutional, and then said that he had never felt any bodily fear.

I can as easily credit that assertion as the one which Governor Morris made of himself, viz: "that he never felt embarrassed by the presence of any person whomsoever in his life." And I am inclined to think that both of them spoke the truth, concerning their own sensations. In 1786 he rode on horseback from Brooklyn to Danvers and made his last visit to his friends there. On his home he stopped at the colleges at Cambridge where the government of the college paid him much attention. It was in junior year. He came to my room; his speech was then much affected with palsy.

I knew his son Daniel Putnam. He has visited me in Salem. His letter to General Dearborn, repelling the charge or insinuation of cowardice at Bunker Hill, was in matter and manner precisely what became him. I have several letters from him, which show that his mind was much cultivated. His manners were frank and gentlemanly.

I have had an opportunity in the examination of applicants for pensions to obtain affidavits of some who were engaged in the battle of Bunker Hill, proving that General Putnam was there encouraging the men and exposing himself with his accustomed fearlessness, in the fight at the Rail fence. Prescott was in the redoubt, at some distance higher up the hill, fighting like a lion. If the ammunition had not failed he would have maintained the ground which he so long and so gloriously defended. Col. Sweet has given a very interesting account of that battle.

Gen. Rufus Putnam (No. 212) of Marietta, served with great reputation in the Revolutionary war. He united great discretion to great bravery. I have often heard Governor Strong speak of him with very great respect, and he knew him intimately and was as good a judge of men as I have ever known. He was the father of the State of Ohio. He descendants there are said to be very numerous. I have often heard my father speak of one of the Putnams who was called "Lieutenant David" (No. 85) as one of the lion-hearted men of his time. I believe he belonged to a troop of horse, which was commanded bt Captain Gardner, but of that I am not certain. I have seen some Indian trophies in the possession of Samuel P. Gardner of Boston which had been taken by his ancestor, Captain Gardner. Most of the family had been farmers, and among them I think William Putnam (No. 231), of Sterling, was the most distinguished. The late General Bowdoin gave the charge of Elizabeth Islands to him.

Some of the family have been successful in commerce; of those I think the late Oliver Putnam (No. 1455), of Newburyport, was the most eminent for talents. He cultivated letters for the love of them. He was self taught, and, as is often the case with such men, he was well taught, in all that he attempted. He left a considerable sum in trust for a high school in Newburyport, and was there greatly esteemed.

I have often heard my father say that some of the family moved to Charlestown, S.C., and were merchants. But of their fate I knew nothing. I think it was Benjamin (No. 414) who went to Carolina.

Some of the family are now distinguished scholars in Divinity. The Rev. Israel W. Putnam (No. 1022) is nearly or quite at the head of the orthodox clergy in New Hampshire; the Rev. George Putnam (No. 1253, of Roxbury, is one of our most eminent Unitarian clergymen in this state. I have lately had occasion officially to be informed that the Rev. Rufus A. Putnam of Fitchburg is one of four clergymen who by a testator were named as trustees to dispose of a large estate for such religious objects as they should think proper. I do not know that gentleman, but the fact to which I allude shows that he is deemed both honest and discreet.

Some of the family have been good shipmasters. I recollect many, but will speak only of one. I recollect that Mr. Vidaurne, the chief justice of the court of Pennsylvania, called to see me, and when about to go away he desired me to direct him to the house of Capt. Hiram Putnam, who brought Mr. V. to this country from Peru. He was put aboard of Captain Putnam's ship by the Peruvian government, against the will of Mr. V., and Mr. V. said "I never should forgive myself if I were to go from the country without taking leave of Captain Putnam, and thanking him for his great kindness to me while I was on board his ship."

Those of the family who have been mechanics, have been generally intelligent and laborious men. My father was a carpenter and a farmer. His share of his father's estate was only thirteen acres of land. By his industry and perseverance assisted by my mother, whose untiring assiduity was without bound, he was enabled to acquire and leave to me the farm which his ancestors had possessed from the first settlement of the country. He did that besides educating two sons in college and making a comfortable provision for his family at home, which from sickness and other causes was very chargeable.

A great many examples of such industry will occur to your recollection. But I know there have been some of the family who have not conducted themselves well. The instances however have been rare considering the great number of descendants from John Putnam.

Generally the descendants of John Putnam have been distinguished more for industry, perseverance, honesty and firmness than for genius or brilliancy. I could illustrate this remark by a great many examples, but I have not time to do it.

After all it is of no consequence that we record that Abraham begat Isaac, and Isaac begat Jacob, and so on, unless we imitate as far as we may the virtues of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

I hope not to have tired your patience. But you may retaliate, by a copy of your genealogical tree, when you shall have completed it."

Notes for BENJAMIN PUTNAM, JR.:

Benjamin Putnam was a private in Captain Jeremiah Page's company. Both, he and his father, marched to Lexington 19 April, 1775. Inherited his father's real estate. He and his wife Miriam joined the church in Danvers, Massachusetts, 1 November, 1778. It was not until 1786 that he held any town office; that year he was tythingman, but from that time on he was frequently called upon to serve the town in various positions. He lived on North Street in the house pictured opposite page 61. The silhouettes from page 352 are from originals that was in Samuel Merrill's possession.

He married JANET HUNTER 1785 in Truro, Nova Scotia.

Notes for TIMOTHY PUTNAM:

Timothy Putnam was born after his father's death. He was carried to Nova Scotia by his mother when not more than six years of age. He settled in Middle Stewiacke. An erroneous tradition has been current for many years amongst his descendants that he was a loyalist. He became the progenitor of a numerous and worthy family, who have sustained the Putnam characteristics as well as their Yankee cousins.

He married HANNAH PUTNAM March 10, 1794, daughter of ENOCH PUTNAM and HANNAH PUTNAM.

Notes for TIMOTHY H. PUTNAM:

Timothy Putnam enlisted at the age of sixteen and served throughout the Revolution bearing the hardships of the terrible winter at Valley Forge. He came home bare-footed. Otis Putnam, Esq., of Danvers, Massachusetts, has in his possession the gun Timothy carried through the war. Mr. Adrian L. Putnam of Provincetown, a grandson, has the family bible and several heirlooms, amongst which is a small silver spoon marked "H.P." and a china plate with "T.H.P." in gilt in the center. This plate is one of a set made to order in China.

Timothy Putnam occupied for a time the old Putnam house, since removed which formerly stood in Summer Street. A part of this property is now known as Oak Hill. He had in a marked degree the old fashioned courteous and dignified manners. The four sons were of medium stature and very industrious men.

He married BETSEY PUTNAM April 28, 1803, daughter of ISRAEL PUTNAM and SALLY EPPES.

Notes for MOSES PUTNAM:

Moses Putnam was apprenticed to learn the shoe business, when fourteen years of age, to John Porter of Danvers, Massachusetts. By successive steps he rose in business till he became one of the largest manufacturers and wealthiest men in Danvers. He, along with his brother Samuel, were pioneers in the shoe manufacturing business, and made their homes near their father's house. Putnamville owes much to Mr. Putnam, who practically, along with his brother, Samuel, spent their lives there. Both were among the founders of the Maple Street Church, which was a offshoot, more centrally located, from the ancient First Church of which they were exemplary members.

She married DANIEL PUTNAM November 30, 1797 in Putnamville, Danvers, Massachusetts, son of ISRAEL PUTNAM and SALLY EPPES.

Notes for SUSANNA PUTNAM:

Lived in the "General Putnam" house.

Notes for DANIEL PUTNAM:

Daniel Putnam inherited from his father the farm now known as the "General Putnam" house. There the general was born and the room today is in many respects unchanged, although the outside of the house is much altered. The old road passed by what is now the back of the house and by the huge willow was a running brook.

The estate was owned by his daughter, Susan Putnam. The state took a large part of the original farm, when the asylum was erected, yet today (1890) the farm is one of the best cultivated in Danvers, Massachusetts.

Daniel Putnam was a shoe manufacture and farmer. He was representative to general Court in 1811-17-19, and often selectman.

His son Allen wrote of his father's home: "Ours was a home of industry, Harmony, and contentment, burdened by neither poverty nor riches. Morality and religion was constantly inculcated by both precept and example. Both parents lived the life of the righteous and their children have reason to cherish most fond affection and reverence for them both, and to be grateful for the careful training they received."

Notes for SUSAN PUTNAM:

Sarah Putnam resided at the Putnam homestead. Miss Putnam has probably met more of the descendants of John Putnam than any other person living. She was always glad to receive visitors and show them the room in which General Putnam was born. Many of these notes have been supplied by Miss Putnam and her sister, Mrs. Philbrick, who have always taken a deep interest in family affairs.

Notes for JOHN DUDLEY PHILBRICK:

He graduated from Dartmouth College, 1842, and was appointed assistant in the Latin School in Roxbury, Massachusetts. His success was immediate and marked. To him is due the present system of grammar schools in Boston, Massachusetts; he was called to Connecticut, and organized the State Normal School at New Britain. He soon returned to Boston and was Superintendent of Public Schools there from 1857 to 1874 and from 1876 to 1878. When he resigned his office he left these schools the best organized and conducted public institutions in this or any other county. In 1878 he was sent to Paris to represent our educational affairs and was successful in overcoming the many difficulties encountered and was decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor. The University of St. Andrews conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws. His entire life was devoted to the development of our educational institutions; his work and writings are known throughout the world. John Greenleaf Whittier, his neighbor in Danvers, wrote of him "He was deeply depressed with the imperative necessity of the education of all the people of the United States, as the only safeguard of liberty and progress, regarding the ballot in the hands of ignorance a cause for serious apprehension of national danger. A good and true man, who served his generation faithfully and successfully, he deserves to be held in grateful remembrance."

Notes for JACOB PUTNAM:

Jacob Putnam was the pioneer of the leather industry in Salem, Massachusetts. When a lad, although not having the advantage of an education equal to some yet his native wit and shrewdness of observation stood him such good service, that he as a man was one of fine education and talents. In 1805 he made a voyage to Calcutta and immediately upon his return established himself in the leather business which he successfully followed until death removed him from an active sphere of usefulness. He was a man of untiring energy, unflinching patriotism, and of sound judgment and great business sagacity. The business he built up was carried on by his son, George F. Putnam of Boston, Massachusetts. This business extended into all the various lines, dealing in hides, tanning, curring, marketing the finished product. During the commercial activity of Salem, he engaged in the shipping business, importing in his own vessels, products of South America and Sumatra.

As a private citizen of Salem, he did much good, although in a manner not calculated to attract attention. His death was lamented by a circle of friends of all stations in life who will always remember him as kindly and benevolent gentleman.

During the War of 1812 he was an active member in the Salem company.

Notes for SAMUEL PUTNAM:

Samuel Putnam, along with his brother Moses, were pioneers in the shoe manufacturing business, and made their homes near their father's house.

Putnamville owes much to Mr. Putnam, who practically, along with his brother, Moses, spent their lives there. Both were among the founders of the Maple Street Church, which was an offshoot, more centrally located, from the ancient First Church of which they were exemplary members. For many years Samuel Putnam was one of the directors of the National Bank in Danvers, Massachusetts, and his judgment was highly valued by his colleagues. Although a man of kindly nature, (he never knowingly distressed a friend or debtor), he was one of few words. His temperate and industrious habits, sound integrity, and skilful pursuit of business won him success and respect. He is said to have enjoyed a fine sense of humor.

She married NATHANIEL ROPES April 17, 1791, son of NATHANIEL ROPES and PRISCILLA SPARHAWK.

Notes for NATHANIEL ROPES:

Nathaniel Ropes was a merchant in Salem, Massachusetts, and lived there and on his farm in Danvers, Massachusetts. His father was one of the noted men of Colonial days. Judge Ropes was graduated at Harvard College in 1745 and was a Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, in 1766 Chief Justice, and in 1772 placed on the bench of the Superior Court of Judicature. He was also representative to the General Court, and a member of the Executive Council. At the time of pre-revolutionary troubles, he, in common with most of the principal people of wealth and education, was averse to the radical movements on foot and this with his official position rendered him obnoxious to the commoner sort of persons. While ill with small pox, his house was assailed by a mob, who broke in the windows, and threatened to assassinate him. The strain was so severe, in his weak state, that he died the next day, 18 March, 1774. He and Dr. Eben Putnam were great friends, which was afterward cemented by a marriage between the families. His residence, on Essex Street, opposite Cambridge Street, was occupied by his granddaughter Mrs. Orne and after her death by her nephew Nathaniel Ropes. Recently (about 1890) it has been moved back and is now the residence of the Misses Ropes who have kept the old house externally nearly as it was but the interior unfortunately was recently damaged by fire.

He married (1) SARAH FISKE May 22, 1791, daughter of JOHN FISKE and LYDIA PHIPPEN. He married (2) ELIZABETH FISKE November 13, 1796, daughter of JOHN FISKE and LYDIA PHIPPEN.

Notes for EBENEZER PUTNAM:

Ebenezer Putnam was one of those men whose every instinct was naturally correct. As a boy, his life is unknown, except that he was a pupil, in 1778, of Reverend Asa Dunbar, the intellectual young colleague of Reverend Thomas Barnard of the First Church in Salem, Massachusetts. It is probable that he was fitted for college by Mr. Dunbar, that gentleman having, by reason of continued ill health, resigned his pastorate of the church, but this is by no means certain.

Young Putnam entered Harvard College in 1781, at the age of thirteen, and was graduated in 1785. Among his classmates were Theodore Lincoln, Henry Ware, Nathan Hayward, Samuel Emerson, Jacob Upham, Paul Fearing and Barzillai Gannett. Samuel Putnam and John Quincy Adams were of the class of 1787, while Nathan Reed whose friendship was lasting had been graduated in 1781.

The stirring times of the revolution, the hardships and annoyances his family had suffered during the contest, probably helped to give him that liberality of character, which especially distinguished him in after life. Shortly after reaching his majority, in 1791, he married one of the charming daughters of General John Fiske, at that time one of the noted men of Salem. General Fiske claimed as his ancestors a long line of more or less distinguished ministers, more than one of whom had suffered bitter persecution as well here as in old England. He had shown the same spirit while in command of vessels of war, as his ancestors had shown in maintaining their right to believe as they chose. His title of general was obtained in the militia when, having accumulated a large fortune by his industry and bravery, he left the sea and settled down to the usual life of a retired Salem ship-owner and Nabob. That Mr. Putnam was a welcome son-in-law is evident; for, within two years of the sad loss of his wife he took as a bride the general's youngest daughter.

A Salem lady used to say she well remembered the occasion of the entrance of the bride and groom in church the Sunday following the marriage. The bride wore a gown of rich white brocade, white satin bonnet and white veil and walked up the aisle on the arm of her husband, a man as well favored by good looks as her self. The miniatures, from which the illustrations here given were taken, were painted at about this time. Until his marriage he had lived with his mother, his father having died in 1788, in the house on Washington Street; but either upon his first or second marriage he removed to the house still standing (1890) on the southwest corner of bridge and Lemon Streets, to which was attached a fine garden of several acres. In this house were born his children and from there he returned to the house on Washington Street, soon after the death of his mother. While living in this house he experienced those reverses of fortune which obliged him part with much of his property. In 1810 he seems to have been drawn into commercial enterprises of what nature is not known, but he is remembered to have in the latter years of life conducted business as a lumber merchant with a wharf near the present North bridge. Shortly after the close of the War of 1812, he was forced to part with the greater portion of his property, so much that his sons were each obliged to begin life without capital. His eldest son in particular was forced to abandon the plans he had formed for his life work.

In his times of prosperity, Mr. Putnam was a large owner of real estate both in Essex County, in Maine and New Hampshire. He was one of the proprietors of Union wharf and held other wharf property and was one of the owners of the new mills on Crane River in Danvers, Massachusetts, as well as of a distillery in Salem. These investments came to him in part from his father and part by his marriage with Miss Fiske.

The War of 1812 and the failure of the Essex Bank were sources of loss or ruin to many a Salem merchant and it is presumed these were among the causes which led to his loss of property rather than from any mismanagement of his estate.

It is related of him that his generosity was abundant and that he was constantly looking out for those he could help. Upon one occasion he noticed the household goods of some family upon the roadway and inquiring who was moving was informed that so and so was ejected for non-payment of rent; he promptly ordered the goods back and settled the bill. This is but one of the many similar accounts I have heard of his good deeds.

In July, 1834, Judge Samuel Putnam (No. 823) wrote the following letter to Colonel Perley Putnam, of such general interest, that it is inserted here: "Ebenezer Putnam (No. 960), the father of the postmaster, was a gentleman of most excellent spirit as well as of great truth and honor. I knew him very well. In any case of morals it would have been safe to follow the dictates of his mind." The Essex Gazette of date of 28 February, 1826, said of him, "He was graduated at Harvard University in 1785 and was highly respected through life for strictest principles of integrity and honor." He died on Saturday the 25th February, 1826, and was buried the following Monday at half-past three o'clock.

Notes for ELIZABETH FISKE:

Of Mrs. Putnam who died in March, 1808, the following obituary appeared in a Salem paper:

"Mrs. Elizabeth Putnam, aged thirty, wife of Mr. Ebenezer Putnam, and youngest daughter of the late Gen. Fiske. This beloved woman was distinguished by her domestic virtues. She inherited all the benevolence which made her Father dear to his fellow citizens, with all those domestic attachments, which form the fond parent, the good wife, and the choicest of friends. She was Mr. Putnam's second wife, and both wives were daughters of the late Gen. Fiske, who has only one daughter living.

Notes for EBENEZER PUTNAM:

From the Battle of Lexington until the evacuation of Boston the British were shut up in Boston, from 19 April, 1775 to 16 March, 1776. On the 17th of November, 1775, the following order was issued by the British commander. "Many of his Majesty's Loyal American subjects, having offered their services for defence of the place "are to be formed into three companies under command of Honorable Brigadier-General Ruggles to be called the Loyal American Associates, to be designated by a white sash around the left arm.

James Putnam, his father, was commissioned captain of the second company, and James Putnam, jr., his brother, was commissioned second lieutenant of the second company.

Sabine says of this command: "General Timothy Ruggles tried to raise a corps of loyalists during his residence in Boston but did not succeed. At evacuation he went to Halifax with the army thence to Long and Staten Islands, where the attempt to embody a force for the King's service was renewed. He organized a body of some three hundred and fifty local militia but does not appear to have done much active duty.

Ebenezer, his brother James and his father, accompanied the army to Halifax and New York, where his sons engaged in business.

Registrar of deeds and wills at Fredericton, New Brunswick. His wife return to Worcester, Massachusetts, where she died.

He married PHILUSA CURTIS April 13, 1791.

Notes for JOHN PUTNAM:

John Putnam was living at Preston in 1786. He moved in 1790, from Cummington, Connecicut, to Hinsdale, Massachusetts, then the west parish of Partridgefield. At this time Berkshire County was just beginning to attract settlers. He was a man of correct habits, strong mind and few words. At his death he left a good estate. During life he was noted for his great strenght and iron constitution.

Notes for PHILUSA CURTIS:

He married (1) HARRIOT OSGOOD December 02, 1815 in Andover, daughter of PETER OSGOOD and HANNAH PORTER. He married (2) JULIA A. OSGOOD April 29, 1833, daughter of SAMUEL OSGOOD, ESQ..

Notes for ISRAEL WARBURTON PUTNAM:
Israel Warburton Putnam was the very foremost of Congregationalist divines of his times, although he entered the ministry somewhat late in life, his father and others not believing that he was destined for the church.

His early education was obtained at Franklin Academy, North Andover, Massachusetts, where he prepared for college. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1810, and commenced to study law with Judge Samuel Putnam, but after two and a half years he became convinced that his duty was to labor in the ministry, and entered Andover Theological Seminary in 1812. He was ordained at Portsmouth (New Hampshire?), 15 March, 1815, and continued in the ministry there for twenty years until dismissed at his own request. During this period he was very active in theological matters. His well known "Thanksgiving Sermon" was preached at Portsmouth in 1826. One of his earliest articles was published in the Panoplist in 1813, entitled, "Does the Bible contain any doctrines contrary to reason?" He became a trustee of Dartmouth College in 18120, and was trustee of Berwick Academy from 1820 to 1835. Installed at Middleborough, Massachusetts, October, 1835, where he remained until his death. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred by Dartmouth in 1853.

During his long and useful life, he showed great interest in educational and historical matters. His researches in regard to the genealogy of the Putnam family were quite extensive, he having entertained the idea of publishing the results, but afterward generously placed his manuscript in the hands of Colonel Perley Putnam.

His two wives were cousins. Israel was of medium height, had blue eyes and very dark brown hair. He assumed the middle name of Warburton in after life, by act of Legislature.

He married BETSEY POPE August 05, 1819, daughter of ELIJAH POPE and HANNAH PUTNAM.

Notes for SAMUEL PUTNAM:

Samuel Putnam was educated at Phillips Andover Academy, and commenced teaching at Marblehead, Massachusetts, thence to Portsmouth, New Hampshire, where he taught eight years. In 1831, in company with Theodore Ames of Salem, Massachusetts, he opened a school for boys in Brooklyn, New York, occupying a building erected for their use by citizens of Brooklyn and called "Classical Hall." Upon Mr. Ames retirement in 1837, Mr. Putnam continued the school at his residence. As a teacher he was widely known and highly respected. Several of his daughters possess his ability and occupy posts as teachers. Samuel was very tall, had blue eyes and brown hair.

He married (1) PRISCILLA CROOM WFT Est. 1792-1808. He married (2) FRANCES FRASER 1780 in Nassau, daughter of JAMES FRASER.

Notes for HENRY PUTNAM:

Henry Putnam is said to have settled in Georgia about 1786, in company with his "brother" Benjamin (No. 414). This is evidently an error, but while it is not a certainty that Henry was the son of Eleazer, yet it is known he was a near relative of benjamin and all the facts seem to point to the position here given as being correct. Eben Putnam states that he is indebted to Mrs. Annie L. Winters for aid in establishing the line of this branch of the family.

Notes for FRANCES FRASER:

She died very suddenly on the Plantation near Savannah, Georgia, prior to 1800.

He married ELIZABETH WFT Est. 1784-1814.

Notes for CALEB PUTNAM:

Caleb Putnam's father, Peter Putnam mentions his second wife in his will. In this will he names "brother-in-law Enoch Putnam" to be executor. In 4 January, 1774, Jeremiah Page is appointed guardian of Caleb.

Caleb Putnam removed to Bolton and engaged in the business of Tanner. He was a resident of Bolton in 1792; but that same year it seems he bought land in Schenectady, New York (deeds at Albany, New York). He finally settled in Rome, New York and acquired considerable property, owning many thousand acres in Rome, Paris, Lee, Canandaigua, and neighboring places. Administration on his estate by his wife Elizabeth, and from the settlement in 1823, it appears that the homestead and tannery came into the possession of his eldest son Peter during the father's lifetime.
