

HIRAM & SIMEON PUTMAN

If you refer to the SOUTH CAROLINA PUTMANS section, you will find a section covering the Reverend John Putman and Sarah Howard and their family. Two of John's children, Hiram Putman and Simeon Putman left South Carolina and traveled through Tennessee up to Monroe and adjoining Barren County right above the Tennessee border.

There in Barren County they married two Mercer Girls. Hiram married Loamy and Simeon married Margaret or Peggy. They were married about 1802. Simeon was not listed in the Kentucky 1810 census, but Hiram was. There was no census for Tennessee in 1810 so he may have gone south across the border or more realistically, in 1810 not many people lived in southern Kentucky and they may just not have been counted.

They were both included, however in the 1820 census and were living in Monroe County. Hiram is listed with his wife, seven sons and two daughters. Simeon and his wife had four sons and four daughters.

By the mid 1820s, both brothers headed south and settled in Tennessee. Simeon settled in Roane County and was there for the 1830 census and then he went into Alabama where he died in 1849. Hiram settled in Hamilton County, Tennessee by 1830.

Hiram Putman

Hiram was born October 6, 1783 in Union County, South Carolina. On June 25, 1806, he married Loamy Mercer. She was a daughter of Forester Mercer. Loamy was born April 30, 1789.

Hiram went to Kentucky with his brother, Simeon. He was in the 1820 Census of Tompkinsville, Monroe County, Kentucky. He had eight sons and 3 daughters. He was living very close to John Barnett who was older and probably the leader of the group from South Carolina.

He then appears in Hamilton County, Tennessee in the 1830 census. By the 1840 census, he is in Randolph County, Alabama and in the 1850 census, he is in Benton County, Alabama. He died in Calhoun County in 1856. His tombstone is found at his church a few miles away in Borden Springs, Cleburne County at the New Bethyl Church. Loamy was living with her daughter Hester Borden Springs in the 1860 census in Calhoun County, Alabama.
